OBITUARY.

MR. WALLACE BICKLEY.

Another old identity has passed away from amongst us-Mr. WALLACE BICKLEY. The deceased arrived here soon after the Settlement was proclaimed -in the course of the year 1829-from which time he maintained an almost unbroken connection with its mercantile affairs. He was a gentleman of considerable literary ability, while his knowledge of shipping and mercantile business-encouraged as it was in early life by the example of his father who was a leading broker in the London Stock Exchange, and further developed by travel through the chief European capitals, and finally by a long period of service in an important department of the East Indian Company's civil service at Calcutta-entitled him to rank as an authority in such matters. He held the office of Lloyd's Agent, and was the representative of the Melbourne Shipowners' Association and of other underwriting and assurance firms, at Fremantle, for many years prior to his death. Mr. Bickley was appointed a nominee member of the Legislative Council under Governor Weld's Administration, in 1872-holding his seat until the end of the last session, when he resigned, in consequence of a disagreement with Governor Robinson as to the status of nominees in Council. That the deceased had faults proved him human, but, whatever his shortcomings, either as a politician or in other public matters in which he interested himself, we believe, his greatest enemies in regarding the issue had seldom any fault to find in him after all. Mr. Bickley was also a justice of the peace, and, until failure of hearing compelled him to relinquish that duty he occasion-ally acted in a magisterial capacity at the Canning. Recently he joined his son-in-law Mr. L. A. Manning in the business which is now carried on under the style of Messrs L. A. Manning & Co. Mr. Bickley fell seriously ill only about a fortnight ago, the malady to which he succumbed being an affection of the heart, of which he died somewhat suddenly, at his residence, Fremantle, about midnight on Friday last. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, among the numerous followers being many of the most respectable residents of the Port, and a large number of the leading citizens of Perth. The deceased whose remains were deposited in the Church of England Cemetery, the service being read by the Rev. D. Glyn Watkins-had reached his 66th year.

DEATH OF MR. W. BICKLEY. Mr. Wallace Bickley, one of the most prominent public men in the colony, died at his residence, Fremantle, on Friday 30th June. The deceased gentleman arrived in the colony in the year 1829, and from that time to the date of his death, was intimately connected with the commercial interest of the colony, and has taken a leading part in the discussion of every question of public importance. Mr. Bickley's knowledge of commercial and shipping business was extensive, and on questions connected with those interests he was looked upon as an authority. Mr. Bickley possessed also considerable literary ability, and was a large contributor to the local press. He was an ardent politician, and an uncompromising advocate of a change in the constitution, and the institution of public works by means of loans. The party of progress has lost by the death of this gentleman, one of its ablest champions, and the hope of constitutional reform is now dim and uncertain. Mr. Bickley was appointed a nominee member of the Legislative Council by Governor Weld, in 1872, and retained the seat until last year, when in consequence of Governor Robinson's attempt to put pressure upon the nominee members in respect to their votes on the question of a change in the constitution, Mr Bickley resigned. The deceased gentleman was also a justice of the peace for the colony, Lloyd's agent, and the representative of several foreign Insurance Companies, commercial houses, and shipping firms. Mr. Bickley was born at Bickley Hall, Kent, on the 11th October, 1810, and was in his 66th year. On his father's side he was the grandson of Sir Francis Bickley, and on his mother's side, of Sir Thomas Dunlop Wallace, and was cousin to the present Sir William Wallace. Mr. Bickley who was entitled to the Baronetcy, declined it in consequence of his having chosen a mercantile career, which he thought inconsistent with a title. He was educated by the celebrated Dr. Buttler, and was fellow student with Sir Arthur Phayre, and Colonel Warburton, the Australian explorer. Mr. Bickley held for some time, a position of responsibility and trust in the Indian Secretariat, under the Company's Government, and thus acquired that experience in the conduct of public business which made his criticisms upon the management of the public service here so trenchant. The funeral took place on Sunday the 7th July, and the attendance testified to the deep respect in which the deceased was held by all classes of the community.

OLD COLONISTS. REINTERMENTS AT FREMANTLE. Memories of the early days have been renewed at Fremantle lately by the exhumation of quite a number of the bodies of old colonists, from some of the cemeteries at Fremantle, and. their subsequent reinterment in the new cemetery. Some little time ago the bodies of the late Mr. Wallace Bickley, his wife and son, and of the late Mr. Lucius A. Manning, were removed from the old cemetery and reinterred in the new reserve. In addition to the four mentioned the remains of Miss X. A. (Dottie) Manning are also interred in the same allotment. The marble slab which covered the grave of the Bickley family. in .the old cemetery has been mounted on a blue-stone base, while the monument surmounting the late Mr. Manning's grave has also been mounted on a blue-stone base weighing over two tons in weight. The surface of the grave area has been tiled with black and white tiles, and the whole surrounded by a substantial, railing. The plans for the alterations to the monuments were drawn by Mr. Howard Evans, and the work of the re-erection and reinterment was' entrusted to Messrs.. A. E. Davies and Co.

MRS. W. O. MITCHELL.

A correspondent writes:-"Among the many old colonists, whose ranks are rapidly thinning, who have passed to their last resting place, is Mrs. William Owen Mitchell, of "The Retreat," South Bunbury, formerly of Newlands, Blackwood, whose death occurred on November 19 at the ripe age of 78 years. The deceased lady was the eldest daughter of Mr. Wallace Samuel Walsh Bickley, a gentleman who, from the prominent position, socially and politically, he held in the colony, was widely known. The late Mrs. Mitchell was born in this State in 1834, at Kenwick Park, Canning, but in her infancy was taken by her parents to India. Her father while there occupied a position of trust, and responsibility in the Indian Secretariat, under the East India Company's government. Mr. Bickley was the eldest son of Samuel Bickley born in Bickley Hall, Kent, England, in 1810, and died in Fremantle, Western Australia, in his 66th year. He occupied a position in the Legislative Council of this State for some years, being appointed as a nominee member by Governor Weld. He was one of the most prominent authorities on commercial and shipping business of his time. Owing to his relationship to Sir Francis Bickley, and on his mother's side to Sir Thomas Dunlop, he was entitled to the baronetcy, but declined taking it, considering it incompatible with the career he had chosen-not deeming it consistent for a merchant to be the bearer of a title. Mr. Bickley was cousin of the then Sir William Wallace. He had a liberal education, and being endowed with many intellectual gifts took every advantage of it. Colonel Warburton, the well-known Australian explorer, and Sir Arthur Phayre, were among his fellow students. After remaining in India several years Mrs. Bickley died, and her little daughter was sent to a well-known seminary in Scotland, where she was educated in the careful and thorough fashion of the Scotch method. At the termination of her school course, after a sojourn in England, she returned to her home in India. Shortly after Mr. Bickley returned to Western Australia, with his daughter (the late Mrs. Mitchell) on his own ship, the Isa, named after his eldest daughter, and toured round the eastern coast of Australia. At Adelaide the Isa was disposed of, and the family came to Fremantle in the ship Aliba. On his arrival Mr.

Bickley again embarked in pastoral and agricultural pursuits, in addition to his transactions in mercantile and shipping business, which were carried on in Fremantle. His eldest daughter now found life a different matter, but with the earnest principle which characterized her all through her long life threw herself into the duty which lay nearest. In December, 1853, Miss Bickley married William Owen Mitchell, the eldest son of the Rev. William Mitchell, Anglican minister from the Swan, who came to perform the ceremony and here, it may be noted, the marriage took place almost at the spot where the bride was born. The young wife now entered on the first stage of her arduous duties of a settler's life, and those who know anything of what that was in the early fifties in Western Australia know that it was no easy task. Mrs. Mitchell accompanied her husband first to the southern district, where for years he had charge of Judge Prinsep's estates, ultimately moving to the Northampton district, and years after again coming to live in the South-West, eventually settling at Newlands, where in June, 1907, Mrs. Mitchell was taken seriously ill, and after six months of suffering was removed to Bunbury under the care of Nurse Griffiths, and attended by Drs. Joel and Flynn. She was partially re-stored to health, and eventually Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell took up their residence at South Bunbury. One serious attack followed another, and eventually Mrs. Mitchell passed peacefully away on the date above mentioned. During her long illness she was attended by her two married daughters at intervals. Mrs. Mitchell leaves a husband, five daughters, seven sons, and 22 grandchildren to mourn their loss. Mrs. Mitchell was laid to rest in the Bunbury Cemetery the day following her death, the funeral being large and representative of the district. The Bishop of Bunbury, assisted by the Rev. P. Secombe, officiated at the grave side.

Obituary

WILLIAM OWEN MITCHELL.

Mr. Mitchell, senior, who went on a visit to Perth almost two months ago to stay with his daughter, Mrs. Evans, left the city several weeks ago, intending to return to his home at Newlands, where he resides, called at Cookernup purposing to stay a week or two there before completing his journey here. He was taken ill last Friday week, and became so seriously indisposed that he took to his bed, and Dr. Moore, of Yarloop, was called in. After several visits he pronounced the malady to be incurable. There was no hope at all and the sufferer rapidly sunk and death came as a happy release. Deceased played considerable part in the development of the State. He arrived in the State at the early age of eleven, his father being the first clergyman in Western Australia. He came in the ship "Shepherd," and his sister, Mrs. Courthope, is now the only survivor of the passengers of this ship. It is a coincidence that death came on the seventy-fourth anniversary of his arrival. Deceased was 85 years at the time of his death. He was born in Bombay, India, and was at one time manager of the Prinsep Estate, and after following agricultural pursuits in the Northampton district settled at Newlands. Here he gave the land on which is the railway station and which was named after the homestead. Deceased married Miss Bickley, daughter of Wallace Bickley, an English baronet, for many years a member of the Legislative Council. He leaves a family of seven. W. W. Mitchell, Mt. Barker, J. O. Mitchell, Yarloop, E. Mitchell, Onslow, G. B. Mitchell, Cookernup, V. C. Mitchell, Donnybrook, Messrs. A. C. and C. C. Mitchell, Newlands. The funeral took place today, Canon Adams officiating. The pall-bearers were Messrs. F. Prain, E. J. Wass, T. W. Paisley, J. Hislop, F. Caporn, and C. E. Reynolds. The chief mourners were Messrs. Graves, Owen, Val., Andrew, and Clement Mitchell (sons), Mrs. Logue, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Courthope (daughters), Charles and Ashley Nicholson, Stephen Mitchell (grandchildren). He leaves in all fifteen grandchildren.

PERSONAL. Mrs. Florence Augusta Strode-Hall, an old colonist, died yesterday in her 97th year at her home in Spearwood. She was born on August 1, 1849, in Calcutta and at the age of two arrived in the Colony of Western Australia on the schooner Isa Izon, owned by her father, the late Samuel Wallace Bickley, of Bickley, Kent, England. Her father made his home at Kenwick Park on the Canning River and she married at the age of 19 years the late Lucius Alexander Manning. She had seven children, four of whom survive her, and left 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. She was married again late in life to Mr. C. E. Strode-Hall. Mrs. Strode-Hall was a keen diarist, but unfortunately most of her early diaries were destroyed by fire. During the last war she devoted much time to knitting for soldiers.

DEATH OF MAJOR V. MANNING

Member of Old Fremantle Family

Major Victor Manning, a descendant of one of the oldest families in Fremantle, died suddenly in Fremantle last night. His father, Mr. L. A. Manning, was a son of Mr. Charles Manning, who came from England and settled at Fremantle in the early forties. His mother was a daughter of Mr. Wallace Bickley, who came to the colony in 1829. Born at his father's property, Davilak Estate, Spearwood, 52 years ago, he was educated at Millhill School in England, and then joined an English cavalry regiment, the 12th Lancers, with which he served in India. Retiring from the British

Army, he returned to Western Australia and took up farming in the Morawa district. At the outbreak of the Great War he returned to England and rejoined his old regiment. Subsequently he served with the Royal Munster Fusiliers, and later with the 5th Royal Berkshires in the 12th Division in France. He was decorated with the Military Cross. After the war he returned to Western Australia, and at the time of his death was living in retirement at the Davilak Estate. He had extensive property interests in Fremantle. The late Major Manning leaves a widow, who resides in England, and two sons. One son is settled in Kenya, and the other has just completed his studies at Oxford. A brother, Mr. L. C. Manning, resides in Peppermint Grove, and a cousin, Colonel C. H. E. Manning, at Guildford.
